When learning actually works, it changes the game for everyone

Why it works for frontline employees

Learning is fun, fast and fits in the workflow: Built-in games, points, rewards and leaderboards keep them coming back to train. And it only takes 3-5 minutes a day, on any device.

Information is at their fingertips: They can find critical job aids and resources in seconds, right in the place they learn every day.

It feels really personal: One-size-fits-all training is a thing of the past with training targeted to what each person knows and doesn't know.

Why it works for the people delivering the training

Onboarding is smoother: By focusing only on the things new employees need to get started, they feel confident in their role sooner.

The learning sticks: Learning is bite-sized, always adapting and continually reinforced over time so employees remember.

Compliance is easy: Track, record and refine each employee's training and progress to prove compliance.

Content is covered: Choose from custom, off-the-shelf and 3rd-party content.

Why it works for the business

Employees do the right things: People who train on Axonify remember what the business needs them to do.

Guesswork is gone: Machine learning connects training data back to KPIs, so it's clear how training is impacting the business—beyond completion rates and test scores.

Communication is a snap: HQ can instantly push out important updates to the entire frontline, targeted teams or individuals.

Proven in the real world. Loved on the frontlines.
