Using paper-based devices cost companies $19,732 per worker per year and many wasted hours. Switching to a modern cloud fax service could not only relieve a huge workload burden but also save on admin and technical time.

GET RID OF ANALOG TIME WASTERS

How many times have you gotten a call because a fax machine jammed, or the fax failed to go through? Walking to the fax machine, addressing the problem, and making sure you really fixed the problem takes valuable time away from your work.

Getting rid of analog devices saves you time by reducing a lot of walking to the device to examine and fix it. Additionally, the wasted time of workers who use such devices also costs your company money.

For many companies, paper documents also pose a more serious hazard – data breaches. In data breaches affecting more than 500 people, paper documents only started 23% of them. However, in breaches impacting smaller groups of people, paper-based information caused 61% of the same problems.

If you thought the headache of tracking an electronic data breach was bad, doing the same for a breach caused by a misplaced paper document is harder. Many breaches may happen from someone seeing sensitive information on an unsecured fax waiting to go through a machine or from glancing at improperly stored papers on a desk.

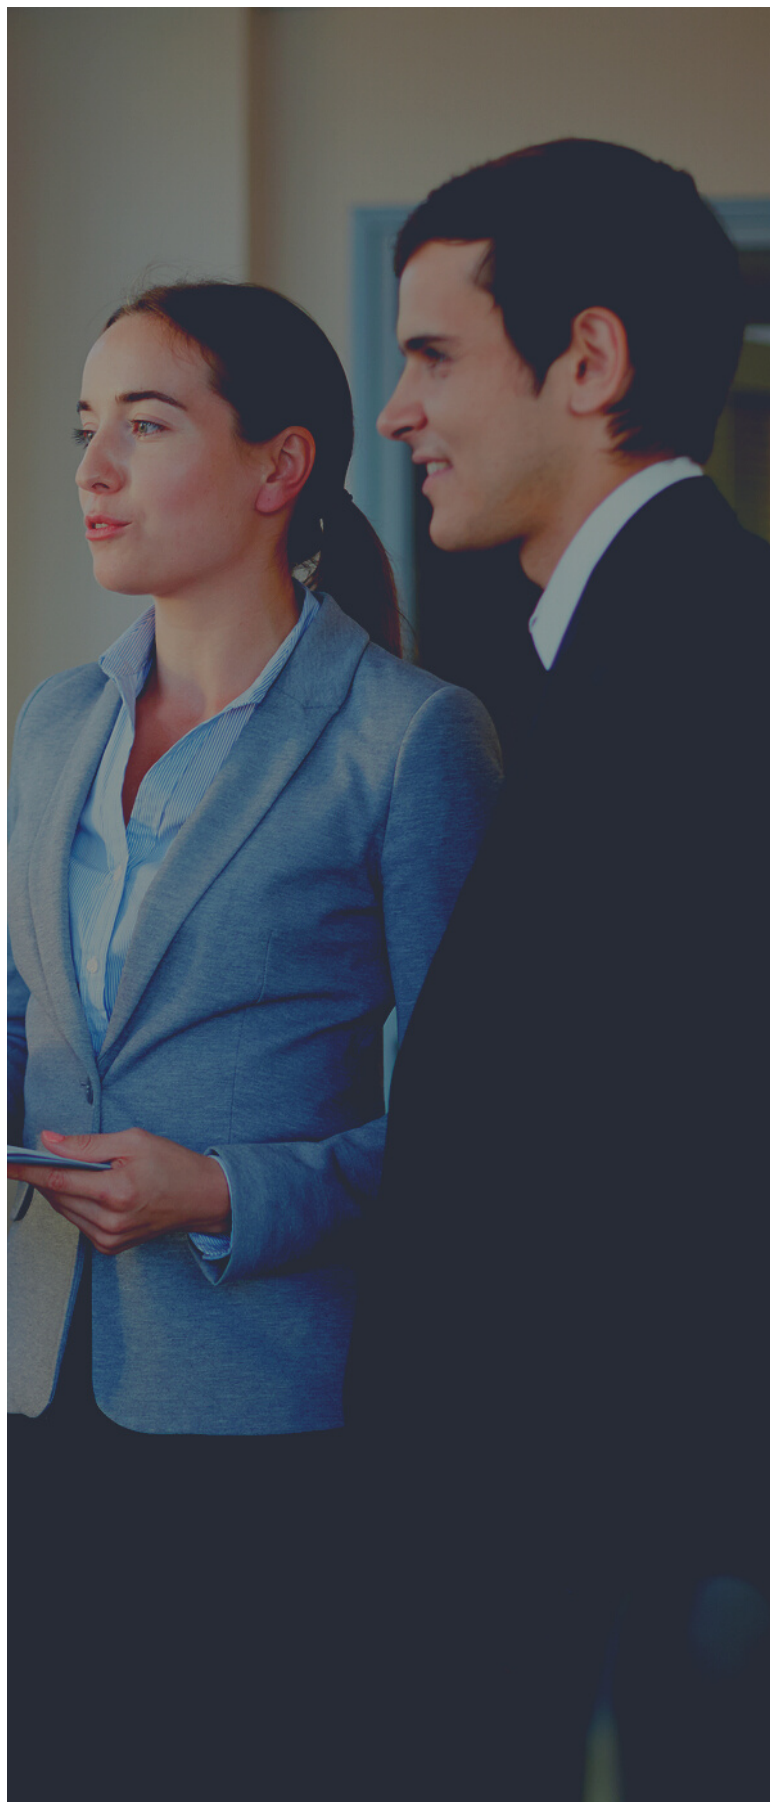

The best solution for a future-looking company is to dispense of any remaining paper-using products and convert to paperless technology that offers better security and less wasted time. With modern cloud fax products, you have the ability to create an audit trail of every user who logs into the system, making it easier to trace the origins of breaches or security leaks. Additionally, with encryption of a document as soon as the fax goes into the system, you don't have to worry about wandering eyes in the office seeing sensitive information.

MODERN CLOUD FAX API FOR SIMPLE INTEGRATION

Unfortunately, you cannot simply throw away an analog fax machine and ask people to convert to emails. Analog faxing offers security once the pages go through the unhackable phone lines. In many businesses, email does not offer the encryption needed for sending secure documents.

A cloud fax service, like mFax, is the solution you need.

With cloud faxing, you send documents to the cloud storage location in route to their final destinations. Throughout the process, from the time the document leaves your computer to its time in the cloud and delivery to its final location, it is fully encrypted to protect the data.

If you already have a document management system, EMR, VOIP, or other system that you want to integrate cloud fax services into, you can with Documo's fax API.

You can fully automate faxing processes. Additionally, the multiple features and scaling let you find a fax solution for your business that will cut the amount of time you waste.

WHY CLOUD FAX SERVICES SAVE YOU TIME

Instead of spending hours each week working through the problems caused by analog fax machines at your company, you can sit back and let the automated process of a cloud fax system work for you. If anyone in the company needs help, you can troubleshoot from your computer or anywhere thanks to the web service. We also have API documents online for quick references wherever you are, even if you work from home.

Statistics show that your company's productivity could drop by 21.3% with a heavy reliance on paper documents. Converting to paperless cloud faxing can save you and your business time and productivity.
